The landscape provides many options for stunning photos to commemorate your day.

Hyde Park Presbyterian Church

A small church in the heart of the city

Be Our Guest

Congratulations on your engagement. We are grateful for the many couples we have united and hope you will choose our church as well. Every effort is made to make your day as special and as possible.

Mavis' House has a dressing area, two rooms for lounging and preparation, a refrigerator, full-length mirror and plenty of space to fit your entire bridal party.

Wooten Hall includes a full kitchen, tables and chairs for rehearsal dinners or receptions. The open space allows for any set up imaginable.

On your wedding day, your names and the date are put on the sign on the corner of the property. It is a special way to welcome your guests and the personalized touch makes for great photos.

Having the opportunity to share our location with you, your friends and family as you begin the next chapter in your life together is a pleasure we look forward to.

Our Story

The history of Hyde Park Presbyterian is as unique as the love and faith of its congregation.

In 1910, the doors opened with 13 members. In 1948, an army mess hall was added and named Wooten Hall after devoted member Ed Wooten.

Soon after, the home next door was bought. It serves as the pastor's office, meeting and Sunday School space and for bridal dressing. In 2010, it was named Mavis' House after beloved member Mavis Buck.

The church was listed with the National Register of Historic Places in 1990. All buildings and grounds are consistently updated to better serve everyone who enters the doors.

We are comprised of multi-generational families, students, couples of all ages and individuals with a focus on fellowship, faith and community.

Over 110 years later, a focus of Hyde Park Presbyterian remains on uniting couples in marriage in a space rich in love and character.

The Fine Print

The sanctuary is ideal for both small ceremonies or up to 150 people. Along with a baby grand piano, a quality sound system is available for use.

There is a small parking lot behind the buildings and plenty of space on the streets.

For younger guests, we have a nursery and outdoor playscape. An attendant is not on site so you are responsible for providing supervision.

Should you choose to use your own officiant, he or she must be approved in advance.

It is your responsibility to obtain a marriage license. Please provide a copy at the time of your wedding.

Weddings are not scheduled on religious holidays and Sunday availability is limited.

Regulations and additional information can be found on our website, by getting in touch or in our Wedding Agreement.
